ART THERAPY

HOW ART THERAPY CAN BENEFIT YOU

Art Therapy is not about creating an art outcome and not always about creating a 'pretty picture'.

Rather, it is about the process of creative expression.

Art Therapy is two-fold acting as an emotional release and means of communication but also as a tool for self-discovery.

Kerryn guides you through creative, expressive processes that switch on multiple areas of both brain hemispheres and help connect with your body which holds other ways of knowing.

The processes are integrated with models of counselling and psychotherapy. Because of this blend of modalities, you gain a different perspective on issues and find lasting solutions in a nurturing, safe space at your pace.

ABOUT KERRYN KNIGHT

"As an Art Therapist in private practice since 2008, I bring forward my lived experience coupled with two schools of formal training. These schools include the Transpersonal and MIECAT's Form of Companioned Inquiry and both have changed my life."

SANDPLAY THERAPY

HOW SANDPLAY THERAPY CAN BENEFIT YOU

Sandplay Therapy is a powerful method to access your unconscious and body felt sense using a sand tray, miniature figurines, and symbols. Bypassing your analytical mind, you allow your wise-self to speak.

A deep and gentle process that reveals what underlies the current situation, Sandplay is a wondrous modality that gets to the heart of the issue for lasting positive change and profound meaning-making.

Kerryn utilises a combination of Sandplay and Art Therapy processes in a therapeutic treatment plan comprising individual sessions tailor-made for you.

PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT

INDIVIDUAL & TEAM WORKSHOPS

Kerryn recognises the necessity of self-care for those working in mental health and education. She provides bespoke workshops to take time out from your caring role, learn creative, therapeutic techniques for self and effective processes to share with your clients.

PRACTICE DEVELOPMENT

Passionate about how specialist Creative Therapy & Counselling supports our Community, Kerryn supports other professionals to Start Up & Grow ☺ their authentic private practice.

SUPERVISION

Registered with the ACA College of Supervisors, Kerryn provides individual & group supervision.
